The boat pictures were taken as we returned from a 5-day Catalina adventure (coming home July 9). Just as we were coming in the Bay near the bridge our dock neighbors Nicole / Dave came out in their dinghy to take photos of us under sail. We were past the Coronado bridge and it was almost the point where we would have had to take the sails down.

This Catalina trip was my first "real" cruise out of the Bay and overnight. I didn't realize quite how beautiful she was until I saw these priceless photos. Big thanks to David and Nicole. One of the things I love most about Pier 32 is the wonderful community of friends and neighbors.

-Daniella Sapriel (300 Dock)

This monstrous fish was caught here, at Pier 32, earlier this summer by our boaters Chad and Tiffany.

It was later identified as a midshipman fish by the Port of San Diego.

What You Can Do

Make your voice heard through your purchasing decisions and by contacting key Mexican decision-makers. Boycott Mexican Shrimp!
Scientists, experts, and citizens from around the world are calling on Mexico to permanently and immediately ban all gillnets in vaquita habitat, drastically step up enforcement on the water and at Mexico's borders, and remove all illegal nets from the Upper Gulf of California.

But Mexican officials haven't listened, even as the vaquita slips ever closer to extinction.

The Boycott Mexican Shrimp campaign asks you to send the strongest possible message to the Mexican government: Act now or lose the vaquita forever.
